CONTENTS

General Editors’ Preface 13
Acknowledgments 15
Abbreviations 17
Bibliography 19
HOSEA 25
INTRODUCTION 27
A. Hosea the Prophet 27
B. The Historical Context and Audience of Hosea 29
C. The Book of Hosea as a Literary Work 31
   1. The Hebrew Text and Versification 31
   2. Literary Devices, Genres, and Metaphors 31
   3. Historical Development of the Text 32
   4. Structure and Outline of the Text 32
D. Theological Themes 34
   1. Political Alliances, Infidelity, and Trust in One Deity 34
   2. An Inner Disposition 35
   3. Knowledge of God 35
COMMENTARY 37
I. Superscription (1:1) 37
II. Hosea’s Marriage (1:2—3:5) 40
   A. Hosea, Gomer, and Their Children (1:2-9) 40
   B. The Promise of Restoration (1:10—2:1) 50
C. The Lawsuit (2:2-23) 53
   1. The Charge (2:2-5) 54
   2. A Blockade (2:6-8) 56
   3. Stripping Bare (2:9-13) 57
   4. Alluring into the Wilderness (2:14-15) 59
   5. Removal of Baals (2:16-17) 60
   6. The Promise of Peace and a New Marriage (2:18-20) 60
   7. The Promise of Blessings (2:21-23) 61
D. The Hope of Reconciliation (3:1-5) 65
III. Oracles of Judgment and Restoration (4:1—14:8)
A. Messages of Judgment and Hope (4:1—11:12)
  1. Yahweh’s Lawsuit (4:1-19)
     a. Divine Indictment (4:1-3)
     b. Charges against Priestly Leaders (4:4-14)
     c. Charges against Worship (4:15-19)
  2. Yahweh’s Judgment (5:1—6:6)
     a. Indictment against Leaders and the People (5:1-7)
     b. Sound the Alarm (5:8-15)
     c. A Call to Repentance (6:1-3)
     d. Yahweh’s Exasperation (6:4-6)
  3. Rebellion Gone Rampant (6:7—7:16)
     a. From the Earliest Days (6:7-11a)
     b. A Nation of Bandits (6:11b—7:3)
     c. A Nation as Hot as an Oven (7:4-10)
     d. A Nation without Sense (7:11-16)
  4. Covenant Broken—the Evidence (8:1-14)
     a. Sound the Trumpet (8:1-3)
     b. King Makers and Idol Makers (8:4-6)
     c. Sowing and Reaping (8:7-14)
  5. The Day of Celebration Becomes the Day of Mourning (9:1-9)
  6. Ephraim, a Withered Root (9:10-17)
  8. Impending Calamity (10:9-15)
  10. A Tale of Two Kingdoms (11:12—12:1)
B. Concluding Messages of Hope (12:2—14:8)
  1. Living Up to a Namesake (12:2-9)
  4. A Liturgy of Repentance (14:1-8)
  5. Wisdom Epilogue: Call for Reflection (14:9)

JOEL

INTRODUCTION
A. Joel the Prophet
B. The Historical Context and Audience of Joel
C. The Book of Joel as a Literary Work
  1. Literary Devices and Genre
  2. Historical Development of the Text
  3. Reliance upon Prophetic Tradition
  4. Hebrew Versification
  5. Flow of Text and Structure
D. Theological Themes
  1. Disaster and the Call to Prayer/Call to Return
2. Who Knows? The Qualification of Prophetic Theology 179
3. The Day of the Lord as Both Judgment and Salvation 179
4. The Past as Paradigm for a Hope-filled Future 180
5. The Spirit of God 180
6. Zion Theology 180
7. Proto-Apocalyptic Thought 180

COMMENTARY 183

I. Superscription (1:1) 183

II. Locust Plague and Resolution (1:2—2:27) 185
   A. A Portrait of Calamity (1:2-7) 185
   B. Call to Mourning (1:8-20) 189
   C. Enemy on the Horizon (2:1-11) 194
   D. Call to Repentance (2:12-17) 199
   E. A Jealous God Acts (2:18-27) 203

   A. After Deliverance . . . (2:28-32 [3:1-5 HB]) 208
   B. Judgment against the Nations (3:1-16a [4:1-16a HB]) 212
   C. Final Restoration (3:16b-21 [4:16b-21 HB]) 217

AMOS 221

INTRODUCTION 223
   A. Amos the Prophet 223
   B. The Historical Context and Audience of Amos 224
   C. The Book of Amos as a Literary Work 226
   D. Historical Development of the Text 227
   E. Flow and Structure of the Text 227
   F. Theological Themes 228
      1. The Day of Yahweh 228
      2. Deuteronomistic-Prophetic Retribution 229
      3. Justice, Covenant, and Worship 229
      4. Lord of the Nations 230
      5. The Divine Change of Plans 230

COMMENTARY 233

I. The Roaring Voice of Yahweh (1:1-2) 233

II. Indictment against the Nations and Israel (1:3—2:5) 237
   A. Aram (1:3-5) 238
   B. Philistia (1:6-8) 240
   C. Tyre (1:9-10) 240
   D. Edom (1:11-12) 241
   E. Ammon (1:13-15) 242
F. Moab (2:1-3) 243
G. Judah (2:4-5) 243

III. Oracles against Israel (2:6—6:14) 246
   A. Israel’s Crime and Punishment (2:6-16) 246
   B. Covenant Responsibility (3:1-2) 252
   C. Cause and Effect (3:3-8) 254
   D. Indictment against Samaria and Bethel (3:9-15) 256
   E. Indictment against “Secondhand” Oppressors (4:1-3) 260
   F. Call to Worship (4:4-5) 262
   G. A Rehearsal of Divine Attempts to Save (4:6-12) 264
   H. Doxology One (4:13) 267
   I. A Song of Death (5:1-3) 269
   J. A Second Call to Worship (5:4-7) 271
   K. Doxology Two (5:8-9) 274
   L. Social Justice and a Call to Proper Worship (5:10-15) 276
   M. An Unexpected Day of Mourning (5:16-20) 281
   N. Reflecting on True Worship (5:21-27) 284
   O. Indictment against Indulgence and Pride (6:1-14) 287

IV. The Visions of Amos and the Confrontation with Amaziah (7:1—8:3; 9:1-4) 294
   A. The Visions of Amos (7:1-9; 8:1-3; 9:1-4) 294
      1. Vision of Locusts (7:1-3) 296
      2. Vision of Fire (7:4-6) 297
      3. Vision of a Plumb Line (7:7-9) 297
      4. Vision of a Basket of Summer Fruit (8:1-3) 298
      5. Vision of the Temple Destruction (9:1-4) 299
   B. Interlude: Amos-Amaziah Confrontation (7:10-17) 302

V. Oracle against Israel (8:4-14; 9:5-10) 308
   A. Social Condemnation (8:4-14) 308
   B. The Final Doxology (9:5-6) 319
   C. A Leveling of Identity (9:7-10) 322

VI. Editorial Conclusion: Hope Beyond Judgment (9:11-15) 328

OBADIAH 337

INTRODUCTION 339
   A. Obadiah the Prophet 339
   B. The Historical Context and Audience of Obadiah 340
   C. The Book of Obadiah as a Literary Work 341
      1. Genre 341
      2. The Development of the Text and the Relationship to Other Prophetic Texts 341
      3. Movement and Structure of the Book 342
D. Theological Themes
   1. The Day of the Lord and the Nature of Judgment 343
   2. Yahweh as Lord of the Nations, Covenant Partner, and Vindicator 343

COMMENTARY 345

I. Edom’s Judgment and Destruction (vv 1-14) 346
   A. Announcement of Judgment (vv 1-4) 346
   B. Edom’s Destruction (vv 5-9) 348
   C. Rationale for Judgment (vv 10-14) 349

II. Judah’s Salvation (vv 15-21) 352
   A. The Day of the Lord (vv 15-16) 352
   B. Zion’s Restoration (vv 17-18) 353
   C. Prose Conclusion (vv 19-21) 354

JONAH 357

INTRODUCTION 359
   A. Jonah the Prophet 359
   B. The Historical Context and Audience of Jonah 360
   C. The Book of Jonah as a Literary Work 361
   D. Theological Themes
      1. The Mission of God 363
      2. Creation, the Sovereignty of God, and Universal Grace 363
      3. The Open-endedness of the Narrative 364

COMMENTARY 365

I. Episode 1: Escape and Rescue (1:1-16) 365
II. Episode 2: A Song of Gratitude (1:17—2:10 [2:1-11 HB]) 372
III. Episode 3: A Reluctant Messenger, an Unexpected Response (3:1-10) 379
IV. Episode 4: An Angry Messenger, a Compassionate God (4:1-11) 385

MICAH 393

INTRODUCTION 395
   A. Micah the Prophet 395
   B. The Historical Context and Audience of Micah 396
   C. The Book of Micah as a Literary Work
      1. Literary Features and Genres 397
      2. Historical Development of the Text 398
      3. Micah and Intertextuality within the Prophets 399
      4. Flow and Structure of the Book of Micah 399
   D. Theological Themes
      1. Divine Judgment and Divine Promise 401
2. Socioeconomic Condemnations and True Worship

3. Authentic Prophetic Ministry

4. The Answer of Divine Grace and Forgiveness

COMMENTARY

I. Superscription (1:1)

II. Judgment and Hope: Series 1 (1:2—2:13)
   A. Oracles of Judgment (1:2—2:11)
      1. Against the Centers of Power (1:2-16)
   B. A Glimmer of Hope (2:12-13)

III. Judgment and Hope: Series 2 (3:1—5:15)
   A. Condemnations of Judah’s Leadership (3:1-12)
   B. Oracles of Hope (4:1—5:15)
         a. Nations’ Pilgrimage to Zion (4:1-5)
         b. Yahweh Will Gather the Exiled People (4:6-8)
         c. Judah’s Exile to, and Rescue from, Babylon (4:9-10)
         d. Victory over the Enemy Nations (4:11-13)
      2. A Ruler from Bethlehem (5:1-6 [4:14—5:5 HB])
      3. The Emerging Kingdom (5:7-15 [5:6-14 HB])
         a. Judah’s Triumph over Enemy Nations (5:7-9)
         b. Yahweh’s Judgment of Idolatrous Nations (5:10-15)

IV. Judgment and Hope: Series 3 (6:1—7:20)
   A. The Divine Lawsuit (6:1-16)
   B. Lamentation with Hope (7:1-20)
      1. Jerusalem’s Lament (7:1-7)
      2. Anticipation of Deliverance (7:8-10)
      3. Restoration and Rebuilding of Jerusalem (7:11-17)
      4. Who Is like Yahweh? (7:18-20)
1. SUPERSCRIPTION: HOSEA 1:1

BEHIND THE TEXT

The superscription locates Hosea within a particular period in the larger story of the people of God. Similar superscriptions with historical references are found in Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Amos, Micah, Zephaniah, Haggai, and Zechariah. Superscriptions in the Latter Prophets, perhaps provided by a final editor, function to authenticate and legitimate the message that is to follow as coming from Yahweh himself. Hosea, like other books that have superscriptions with historical references, identifies the prophet and makes reference to his ancestry, and locates the period of his ministry in relationship to the kings of Judah and Israel.
Verse 1 introduces the content of the book as the word of Yahweh that came to Hosea son of Beeri. The superscription functions to authenticate and legitimize the material that is to follow; it also communicates the conviction that the prophet is a person who is entrusted with the word [dāḇār] of Yahweh. The word that came (lit. happened) conveys the notion that this “word is not the product of human speculation or wisdom” but rather this word “happened as an event of revelation to a particular man, and his proclamation is reflex and expression of that event” (Mays 1969, 20).

The prophet’s name Hosea (ḥōšēaʿ) means “salvation”; it is derived from the verb yāšaʿ, which means “to save.” According to Num 13:8, 16, this was the original name of Joshua. It is also the name of the northern kingdom’s last king (2 Kgs 15:30). The significance of the name of the prophet, however, is never noted in the text, nor does the text ever appear to use the name as a pun. However, the prophet makes the declaration in ch 1 that Yahweh will save (yāšaʿ) Judah not by bow, sword, war, horses, or horsemen but by Yahweh their God (1:7). Similarly, toward the end of the book (13:4 NRSV, see also 13:10), Yahweh declares, “I have been Yahweh your God ever since the land of Egypt; you know no God but me, and besides me there is no savior” (mōśīʿа derived from yāšaʿ). The prophet’s name seems to symbolize salvation for Israel as Yahweh’s ultimate plan for the nation, though it is now faced with the reality of his judgment. As to the name of Hosea’s father, Beeri, nothing is known.

Verse 1 places the ministry of Hosea during the reign of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, southern kingdom kings from 783 B.C. to 681 B.C. and during the reign of Jeroboam II, who ruled the northern kingdom from 786 B.C. to 746 B.C. Since Hosea carried out his ministry in northern Israel and since the text lacks reference to other northern kings, it is reasonable to assume that Hosea was active in the north sometime during the reign of Jeroboam II, a contemporary of the Judean king Uzziah (783-742 B.C.). Particularly, the oracles of the prophet reflect a concern over the house of Jehu; Jeroboam II was a great-grandson of Jehu. It is possible that the prophet fled to the south and continued his ministry in Judah soon after the death of Jeroboam II and prior to or during the revolt against the house of Jehu and the assassination of Zechariah, Jeroboam’s son. The reference to Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah seems to suggest a Judean ministry, but it is difficult to establish a precise date for the ministry of the prophet.
prophet and the text but also the reader. The superscription locates the reader in a particular theological world, a sociohistorical world, as well as a creative-dynamic world of the prophetic word.

The book of Hosea in its final canonical form is located within the broader historical and theological tradition of Deuteronomy and Joshua—2 Kings (Deuteronomistic theology and Deuteronomistic History). The Deuteronomistic theological tradition is ultimately traced to Moses, the prophet par excellence (see Deut 34:10-12). This broader tradition of the Prophets (Nevi‘im) provides a significant context for intertextual reading of the book of Hosea as well as a valuable theological backdrop for the reading of the text.

The prophetic message does not speak into an empty world but into the concrete realities of human existence and into the situations in which God’s people find themselves at any given moment in history. The superscription of Hosea invites readers of subsequent generations to be keenly aware of the fact that the prophet’s message cannot be completely dislodged from the concrete world of the people of God in the eighth century B.C. The reference to Jeroboam, Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah is a reminder of volatile and crumbling political, social, and religious realities for Israel and Judah. Verse 1 presents the coming of God’s word as a historical reality in the midst of Israel’s crisis-filled existence. The content of the book of Hosea shows that God speaks directly into the context of the crisis of his people—words not only of severe judgment but also of intense hope.

The superscription also serves to authenticate the message of the prophet as the word from Yahweh. The message of the prophet is directly linked to the creative and life-giving word of Yahweh. The reader or hearer of the text must keep in mind the ongoing creative-dynamic effect of this prophetic word from God as it is taught and proclaimed in contemporary settings. From a Christian perspective, as this word speaks into diverse contemporary settings, the Living Word, Jesus Christ, is made present among us; through him, and by the help of the Holy Spirit, the people of God experience the ongoing dynamic of divine creativity and newness conveyed by the word.